

SOUTHERN ENVIRONMENTAL LAW CENTER

CHAPEL HILL, NC

The Southern Environmental Law Center is a non-profit advocacy organization that protects the environmental quality and the outstanding natural resources of six southern eastern states. The 8,000 square feet fit-up included a mix of private offices and public work areas. The public areas, including a large, glazed conference room, are grouped in the center of the plan and borrow daylight from the private offices that ring the perimeter. The unique geometry of the concrete structure of the original building shapes the layout and provides a clear organizational framework. Artwork and reclaimed wood panel accents provide warmth and materiality for the collection of new space.
