

JUJUBE
CHAPEL HILL, NC

Jujube is an Asian inspired restaurant with a menu concept that blends the flavors of China and Vietnam. Located in a commercial shell space, the restaurant has a very large back-of-house kitchen. The front-of-house consists of three primary areas: kitchen dining, bar dining and conventional dining. To allow the dining area to flow into the kitchen, a series of holes were cut into the existing masonry walls. Surrounding the existing cooking line, the dining room offers patrons the opportunity to watch the preparations and enjoy the activity around them. The new environment reflects the simplicity and strength of the menu concept. The use of intense interior colors provides a striking contrast to the black & white photographs that adorn the walls.
